Dear Mr. Ashton,

As you are well aware - in the operating company the procedure for spending company funds are:

1. Employees must have expenditures approved by proper authority.
2. Purchases must be made and receipts returned to the company as proof of purchase.

We must insist that this system be used in regards to the museum. The burdon of proof rests upon the company and not upon the museum. It is your responsibility to furnish these proofs of expenditures by copies of the receipts with itemization and description as requested.

Actually there is nothing in the lease which remotely indicates that you have any authority what-so-ever to take it upon yourself to pre-pay monies against the foundation or to create any indebetness against the museum. We challenge you to show us in the lease where it does. An illegal procedure has been allowed to function which must now be corrected. This lease is totally one sided. The museum has not been fairly represented or protected in this document. It has been the policy of the managment of the company to perpetually see to it that the museum has never received fair treatment.

If we have not received the materials requested by January 10, 1975 the museum owes the company nothing.

Very truly yours,

C. H. Nielsen (vice president)
